You're invited to submit nominations for 2012:

Physician Assistant of the Year Physician of the Year PA Educator of the Year

There are many outstanding physician assistants, physicians and PA educators who deserve this recognition. Recipients may be nominated by peers, colleagues, physicians or patients. Please take the time to nominate those who best represent the ideals of the award.

Because cognitive intelligence is a baseline requirement for PAs and physicians, NYSSPA's award selection criteria seeks to identify excellence beyond pure intellectual skills and productivity. We seek to recognize and celebrate inspiration (how has the nominee responded with resilience to challenges and/or with vision to opportunities?), service (how has the nominee acted for the good of society and the PA profession?), and integrity (how has the nominee reflected a consistency of actions, values, methods, measures and principles?).

To make a nomination, submit this form along with a letter that describes how your nominee exemplifies the characteristics noted above by fax or mail. Nominations are due February 23, 2012. Nominations received after February 23, 2012 will be considered the following year.

Awards are presented annually during NYSSPA's Fall CME conference.
